7 April 1980

As the Agency's Inspector General from July 1976 until his retirement in January 1980, Mr. Waller ably assisted and helped guide this Agency through a very difficult period. His dedication and firm leadership have helped us all to maintain the high standards of the Agency and the integrity of our intelligence-gathering efforts. Mr. Waller's 35 years as a professional intelligence officer were marked with singular contributions to the national security.
